

FUN STUFF ... from Dennis Grigassy #1611

Submitted by various of my clients ...

A Sunday school teacher was discussing the Ten Commandments with her five and six year olds. After explaining the commandment to honor thy Father and thy Mother, she asked, "Is there a commandment that teaches us how to treat our brothers and sisters?" Without missing a beat one little boy (the oldest of a rather large family) answered, "Thou shall not kill."

You know you're old when by the time the last birthday cake candle is lit the first candle has burnt out.

I'm young at heart. Slightly older in other places.

May you live to be so old that your driving terrifies other people.

Age is just a number that determines how happy, attractive, and able-bodied you are.

I love asking kids what they want to be when they grow up because I'm still looking for ideas.

When my mother was 90 she took out a funeral plan. She specified that she wants cremation. The letter of acceptance and confirmation offered her 'a very warm welcome.'

Everybody my age is getting so old.

I'm not old just "chronologically gifted."

I know how to make my wife drive more carefully: I told her that if she has an accident, the newspapers would print her age.

You're only young once, but you can be immature forever.

At my age my back goes out more than I do.

When trying to count the candles on my last birthday cake, we were driven back by the heat.

Retirement is when your favorite piece of software is a pillow.

The years that a woman subtracts from her age are not lost. They are added to the ages of other women.

First you forget names, then you forget faces. Next you forget to pull your zipper up and finally, you forget to pull it down.

Old age is like everything else: to make a success of it, you've got to start young.

Two cows are grazing in a field. One says, "Aren't you worried about mad cow disease?" The other replies, "Not me, I'm a squirrel."

I don't have pet peeves, I have whole kennels of irritation.

When we housed Lewis the goat in the apartment, people kept asking: "A goat in the apartment, what about the smell?" "Oh, don't worry, he'll get used to that."

Do you know that dolphins are so smart that within a few weeks of captivity they can train people to stand at the edge of the pool and feed them fish.

In ancient times, cats were worshipped as gods; they have not forgotten this.

This weekend I'm attending an animal rights barbecue.

I called the vet to complain about his over the top fees. He just put the phone down, as quickly and humanely as possible.
